A screenshot of a macOS-style dialog box titled "Edit Photo Details". The dialog has a light gray background and a dark gray title bar with three window control buttons (red, yellow, gray) on the left. The main content area is divided into two sections: "Captions :" and "Tags :". The "Captions :" section has a single text input field containing the word "captions". The "Tags :" section has two stacked text input fields; the top one contains "location" and the bottom one contains "person". At the bottom right of the dialog are two buttons: a "Cancel" button with a light gray background and a blue "OK" button. A thin black line points from the "OK" button to the text "Screen 4" located outside the dialog box to the right.

A dialog box titled "Add New User" with a light gray background and a dark gray title bar. The title bar contains three standard macOS window control buttons (red, yellow, and gray). The dialog contains three text input fields stacked vertically, each with a label to its left: "Username", "First Name", and "Last Name". At the bottom right of the dialog are two buttons: a "Cancel" button with a light gray background and a blue "OK" button with a blue background and white text. Two thin black lines originate from the "Screen 2" label below and point to the "Cancel" and "OK" buttons.
